Samoa Conference II

4th – 8th July 2011 | Apia Samoa

“Tracing Footprints of tomorrow: past lessons, present stories, future lives”

Talofa Lava!

The National University of Samoa is hosting the 2nd International Conference on Samoa, known as Samoa Conference II, from the 4th – 8th of July this year, at its Le Papa-i-galagala Campus at Vaivase.

The Samoa Conference II provides a forum to bring together all international and local academics, as well as practitioners in business, government or non government organisations who have done, or are currently doing research or any innovative activities on any aspect of development in Samoa. Those who will be presenting include academics and practitioners from the United States, France, Switzerland, Hawaii, Australia and the Pacific region as well as local leaders from the government, non-government, local business and cultural communities. This forum aims to: inform the public, debate developmental issues, inspire the young and empower emerging researchers which augurs well with the National University of Samoa's role of developing and disseminating knowledge in Samoa.

The theme for this Conference is "Tracing the footprints of tomorrow: past lessons, present stories, future lives." It focuses on the oft-cited wisdom that moving forward requires learning from the past. Thematic areas include:

1. Culture, Religion and Indigenous Knowledge
2. Law, Social Justice and Globalization
3. Science, Technology and the Environment
4. Business and Entrepreneurship
5. Media and the Arts
6. Health and Political Governance
7. Education
